

I just can't [] that this is right. We are [] keen to work, we are both desperate to work, and as with most [] we would work through a [] illness. We don't take time off [] After days of accusations of missing [] and mishandling, the Health Secretary, just back at work after the virus [], is trying to show the government is getting a grip. I [] why NHS staff want tests, so they can get back to the [] line, of course I do. But I took the [] that the first priority has to be the patients for [] the result of a test could be the difference in treatment that is the difference between life and [] Privately, the government [] they have been too slow, so now, with help [] business and a huge new [] they are setting a vast new target. I am now [] the goal of 100,000 tests per day by the end of this [] That is the goal, and I'm determined that we will [] there. Can you give us a firm date by [] any NHS staff that need a test will get a test? [] in a fast-moving crisis like this, the end of the month is still a long time away. I will, over the coming weeks, [] to ensure that every NHS front line [] member who needs a test gets one. [] you put a date on that? Would you give it a deadline? Because [] are very [] about this right now. Well, they are, and I'm [] that we are able to [] it up. It will absolutely be before the end of the month. [] we are, and I'm [] over the coming weeks.
