

Downing Street believes a major [] mission needs to be [] after the EU threatened to introduce border [] on the island of Ireland. The very [] Brussels spent four years trying to stop. Ministers insist they are embarking on a [] attempt to restore [] within Northern Ireland. Others detect a heaven sent opportunity for the UK to [] down some of the most difficult aspects of the Brexit []

Nationalists are [] for a calm approach. It's important that we all approach this in a cool-headed and [] way. Yes, we were disappointed and [] by what the European Commission said it was intending to do [] Friday night, but of course it didn't actually do that. It didn't [] Article 16. Yes, by all means, if the UK and EU can [] a set of easements and processes to make the protocol work [] we're up for that. That's great, that's what we want. But let's be absolutely [] the protocol needs to be [] it needs to be made to work, because it's a product of UK Government []